Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 19 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cloudy in the east but some sunny intervals further west.

Today:
A generally cloudy and rather chilly day in central and eastern parts of Wales with mist and murk slowly lifting. Sunnier in western areas and feeling quite mild here. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloud in the east slowly lifting through Sunday night, improving visibility at the surface but shrouding the higher ground. Clear spells remaining in the west, allowing it to turn chilly. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Monday:
Another cloudy day in the east but less murky than of late. The west once again seeing the most reliable breaks and sunshine but feeling cooler here than the weekend. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Staying settled for Tuesday and Wednesday with an increasing likelihood of some sunshine, though feeling colder with fog and frost in places overnight. Potentially turning more unsettled on Thursday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.